Local Republicans Ratify Election

MANY SPEAKERS HEARD

Jollification Meeting at G. A. R. Hall Brings Out Much Post-Election Enthusiasm.

Local Republicans are busy today recovering from one tremendous jollification over the election of President Roosevelt so as to be ready for another such a one on Monday night.

The event took place last night in Grand Army Hall, and was one of the most successful affairs of the kind pulled off in Washington.

The other meeting, which takes the form of a dinner, will occur in the National Rifles Armory Monday night at 8 o'clock. Prominent speakers were present last night, and a number are to be present at the dinner.

Music and Decorations.

Grand Army Hall was decorated with flags and bunting. Music was furnished by Will Haley's Orchestra.

President Frank K. Raymond, of the Roosevelt and Fairbanks League, occupied the chair. George W. Drew acted as secretary.

One of the stage was a number of members of Congress. National Committee-man Reuben, and several officers of the Old Boys' Club, and the Roosevelt and Fairbanks League.

The meeting was planned to take the place of a proposed march to the White House. The President was to have been serenaded, but there was objection to this, so the meeting was arranged.

Chaplain Couden's Prayer.

Chaplain Couden, of the House, said an invocation.

W. E. Andrews, of Nebraska, auditor of the Treasury, began the speaking with an eloquent dissertation upon the results of the election, and the responsibilities the President will have to face. He eulogized the Republican party, and gave it the credit for the vast development of the country.

Representatives A. R. Webber, of Ohio; Daniels, of California; ex-Representative David K. Watson, of Ohio, and Delegate J. Rodey, of New Mexico, also made addresses applauding the President and the party.

Rodey made his usual appeal for the assistance of New Mexico to Statehood. J. G. Brinkman, editor of a labor paper, said that the union almost to a man had voted for the President, which accounted in some degree for his overwhelming victory.

Right of Suffrage.

Dr. Robert Keyburn urged the right of suffrage for the District.

Representative Green, of Massachusetts, discussed the situation as it exists in Massachusetts, saying he hoped some day the other States would settle the hours men must work as the Bay State had.

He said that the reason why the States south of the Potomac were overcoming Eastern rivals in the manufacture of cotton was because operatives in Massachusetts mills were allowed to work only fifty-eight hours a week under the law, while in the South the employers could compel their mill hands to labor twelve hours a day and seven days a week.

Rights of Old Soldiers.

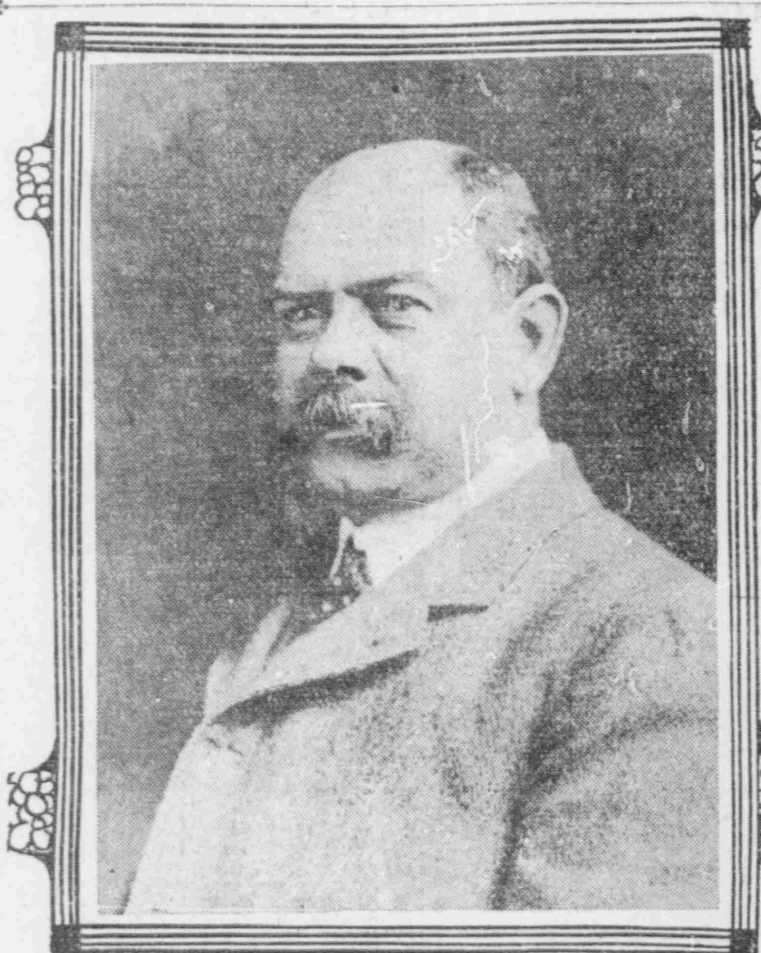

Capt. Thomas H. McKee created something of a sensation with an attack upon the Administration for the continued appointment of young men to important places to the exclusion of men who had made bitter sacrifices to save the country in time of need. He said the old soldier should receive better treatment than is now being meted out to him.

Letters of regret were read from Engineer Commissioner Biddle, Representative Payne, Frank L. Campbell, Gen. J. M. Wilson, Gen. G. H. Harries, Secretary Wilson, Postmaster General Wynne, Representative J. P. Dooliver, Representative Slemmons, of Virginia; Senator Dick, of Ohio; James H. Garfield, Justice Wright, of New York; J. Bonaparte, of Baltimore, Md.; W. F. Stone, sergeant-at-arms of the Republican National Convention; Representative C. H. Grosvenor, Senator Black, of New York; Attorney General Moody, Senator J. M. Thurston, District Commissioner H. B. Macfarland, and Hon. George B. Cortelyou.

The committee which had charge of the arrangements for the meeting was composed of Frank K. Raymond, chairman; George W. Drew, secretary; D. W. Wood, D. V. Grieves, W. A. Hickey, J. C. Hatt, William H. Sever, Frank Metzger, Dr. T. E. Lee, Col. Dan A. Grosvenor, Dr. Robert Keyburn, J. L. W. Kearney, Frank Kearney and E. J. Roche.

The dinner Monday night will commence at 8 o'clock and will be attended by prominent members of the party will be present.

Sole Support of Widowed Mother Killed by His Companion While Hunting.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 10.—Joseph Kaylor, aged sixteen years, of Mt. Savage, this county, the main support of a widowed mother, was instantly killed by Harry Wilhelm, aged twenty-two years, a companion with whom he was hunting.

The two young men, in company with four others, were hunting back of the Bald Knob Coal Company place, about three miles northwest of Mt. Savage.

Wilhelm aimed at a rabbit and just as he pulled the trigger young Kaylor accidentally stepped in front of the gun. The top of his head was blown off.

Life Saving Statistics in a Unique Design

The exhibit which the Life Saving Service had on display at St. Louis is being returned to Superintendent Kimball, and among the things unpacked today was the pen-printed summary of operations of the life savers from 1871 to 1903, designed by Charles A. Harbaugh, law clerk of the bureau. The work is decidedly unique, and attracted widespread interest.

The design is in a simple oak frame, and around the edges is drawn a border of heavy anchor chain, with here and there an anchor attached. Within the border at the top in large printed letters are the words, "Summary of Operations, Etc." In the center is a delicately drawn picture of a surfman warning by signals a ship approaching the surf, and beneath this is the summary of the work done by the life saving service, showing the number of wrecks visited, value of vessels saved, the number of persons rescued, and other interesting details. The entire work was done by the pen.

Mr. Harbaugh has been given permission to hang the work in his office in the Life Saving Service Bureau.
